ENOUGH GOLD FOR TRADE

to Cramp Business.

The Boers Certain to Take Good Care of the Mines in the Event of War-Great Nations Have Enough

It is said by officials at the Treasury Department that while war in the Transvaal may have tthe effect of raising the rates of interest and depressing the prices of stocks, the temporary stoppage of gold Should the mines be wrecked or dam-peace before they could be worked again, lake town has a word to say against there would be a marked shortage in the world's supply of gold. Not only is such action by the Boers not expected, but the belief is held that they will work the belief is held that they will work the world the world be some such consents they work the world be some such consents their trees. mines themselves and replenish their treasury at the expense of the English mineowners. In this case the difficulty would be in getting the gold on the market.

According to a Treasury official who discussed this suject today, the world's production of gold increases in proportion to the demands of commerce. The production of gold is increasing enormously. In 1893 it was about $165,000,000, while last year it reached the total of $288,000,000. If it had not been for the troubles in the Transvaal, it is believed the total product this year would have reached $320,000,000, and even with which Richard Mansfeld is most praised. Now he is remembered for "Nathan Hale" and "The Moth and the Flame," while much is expected of his "Barbara Frietchie" and "Sappho." The Kelcey-Shannon piece is, in many remines themselves and replenish their treas-ury at the expense of the English mine-owners. Every gold-producing country will send out more gold this year than last. As far as the figures for 1898 have been received they are: United States (including Alaska), the first week at the Grand—a bill for which a mention of the people engage. duction in the Transval, more stamp mills would be erected and in such localities more low-grade ores treated. As yet noth-ing has been attempted in the Klondike but placer mining, but when the quartz ills are erected and put in operation the oduction of that region should be great-

As England has about $1,009,000,000 in-As Eugland has about $1,000,000,000 invested in the Transvaal its stocks are liable to shrink in the face of war. London is looking to New York for relief, and as the rates of interest advance in London it is believed New York capital will flow there. With gold flowing to England and interest rates there going up, rates in New York will rise and money become tighter. This will restrain speculation and prevent any strong bull movement, although the securities paying regular interest should hold their own.

Leonard's humor was so spontaneous and his ability so pronounced that few persons who attended the performance paid the slightest attention to anything else. In "Two Jolly Rovers" he is said to have a really enjoyable farce which is enjoyably presented by a company including, among others, Mazie King and Sherman Wade. The production is described as being an adequate one. Seats have been on sale since last Thursday.

London will need gold in case of war, and will have to buy it in the market, just as it would any other commodity. Considerable amounts will have to be shipped to South Africa. The Bank of England now has $1,700,000,000 in gold in its vaults, which is considerably less than the amounts held by Russia, France, and Germany.

Russia leads the world in the amount of gold it holds, having nearly $450,000,000.

The Bank of France has $380,000,000 in gold. The United States has the third of The Bank of France has see the third of the long purses, having $395,554,799, of which $100,000,000 is the gold reserve, $103,453,419 is for the redemption of gold certificates and the remainder is free gold. Germany holds $200,000,000 in gold, Austria-Hungary has $150,000,000 and the Bank of Spain has $65,000,000. Italy has nearly $60,000,000. The New York Assoling Times of yesterday that Henry Getz.

The total amount held by the banks and countries enumerated above is nearly $2,000,000,000. It would, therefore, seem that even if the output of gold from the Transvaal should be stopped for a time, the world could find enough cash to carry on its commerce.

Sampson's Fleet at Hampton Roads The North Atlantic squadron, excepting the Texas, which arrived there yesterday, entered Hampton Roads this morning, a day later than expected. Orders had been sent previously to Admiral Sampson at Fort Monroe to direct the New Orleans to return to the New York navy yard for repairs necessary for her voyage to Manila. #### THINGS THEATRICAL.

The story of "The Choir Invisible," which will be presented for the first time on any stage next Monday night at the La-South Africa's Trouble Not Likely fayette, differs from that of the book in that it has a "happy ending." James Lane Allen's readers will remember that in the novel John Gray, deeming hopeless his passion for the wife of his friend, marries another woman and that, after the death of the friend, that wife learns of all she has lost. The John Gray of of the Precious Metal on Hand Frances Hastings' adaptation is more to Meet the Demands of Commerce. faithful. He waits for the object of his affection, and, in the winter of their two lives, the lovers are folded at the homestead on the border of the Kentucky wood which Mr. Allen painted so well.

Critics, like doctors, are much inclined to disagreeing, and when their opinions mining in South Africa will probably not are unanimous one may determine that the lead to additional complications in the play reviewed is very good or very bad. A money market. One reason for this belief s that they do not think the war will last office eleven cuttings from as many Chiles that they do not think the war will have office eleven cuttings from as many callenger than six months, and count on the Eboers taking good care of the mines while in possession of them.

Should the mines be wrecked or damshould the mines be wrecked or dam-aged to such an extent that considerable time would elapse after the restoration of

would have reached $329,000,000, and even "Barbara Frietchie" and "Sappho." The with this disturbance it will probably go beyond $300,000,000. Last year the Transvaai produced $80,325,000, an amount which was equaled by the production of the first eight months of this calendar year.

"Barbara Frietchie" and "Sappho." The Keicey-Shannon piece is, in many respects, his boldest fling and occasioned no end of comment when last done here. It will undoubtedly draw well during the diumvirate's engagement at the Colum-as the figures for 1898 have been received they are: United States (including Alaska), $64,463,000; South Africa, $80,326,000; Russia, $25,463,000; Australasia, $52,576,600; Canada, $17,000,000. One reason for the steady increase in the gold production, aside from the discovery of new fields, has been the steady improvement in mining machinery and mining methods through which were supported as being interesting. Mr. and Mrs. Wark Murchy whose newest sketch is machinery and mining methods, through which it became possible to work low-grade ores at a fair profit. In one mine in South Dakota, and in the Douglas mine on Treadwell Island, Alaska, the ore runs of the casino companies; Conway and Lemined and the gold extracted for less than $1.50 a ton a fair margin for profit is left.

If the demand for gold should increase on account of the falling off in the production in the Treadwall many of the proposed to be altogether unique.

John Leonard, who brings "Two Jolly Rovers" to the Academy on Monday for a week's engagement, will be recollected as the comedian who, with Barney Gil-more, made possible that poorest of ab-surdities, "Hogan's Alley." The piece was an incoherent sort of affair, but Mr. Leonard's humor, was so spenjaneaus and Leonard's humor was so spontaneous and his ability so pronounced that few persons who attended the performance paid the slightest attention to anything else. In The production is described as being an adequate one. Seats have been on sale rates.

Phyllis Raffel, vocalist; Whitelaw and Stewart, laugh-provokers; Joues, Grant and Jones, colored comedians; Blanch Newcomb, a daughter of the late Bobby Newcomb, Laurence Crane, magician, and Fred Bulla, monologist, are among the entertainers who are to be introduced in the olio offered next week at Kernan's by the "Imperial Burlesquers. The organization is well known and the roster given argues that it has not deteriorated since last being seen here. The performances provided are ended with the rendering of what is said to be a well acted and costumed musical skit, which is entitled "Wanted—A Shirt."

TENDERED HIS RESIGNATION.

ssistant District Attorney Laskey to Retire From Office. Assistant United States Attorney for the District, John E. Laskey, has tendered his esignation to District Attorney Anderson to take effect on Saturday next. It was also rumored about the City Hall today that there has been a graded reduction made in the salaries of the assistant prose-cutors and clerks in the District Attorney's

It, however, can be authoritatively stat ed in reference to the resignation of Mr. Laskey that it was in no way influenced by this report. Some weeks ago Mr. Las-key decided to sever his official connection with the office, and when General Anderson assumed the duties of the office he was son informed by Mr. Laskey.

District Attorney Anderson expressed regret on being informed of Mr. Laskey's determination, and he told him that he would have been pleased to have him remain. He also tolk him that several mem-bers of the bar and also some of the jus-tices of the Supreme Court of the District had spoken of the valuable services he had rendered during his connection with the office.

Mr. Laskey entered the District Attorney's office about four years ago during the incumbency of Arthur A. Birney.

District Attorney Anderson was asked about the rumor in reference to the reduction of salaries, and stated that no action had been taken along this line. If, action had been taken along this line. If, however, there is a readjustment of salaries, it will be with a view of enabling the office under the present appropriation to carry five instead of four assistant pro-

SHIPPING TRUSTS IN ENGLAND. Charges of Monopoly Made by a Lon-

Consul Marshal Halstead, of Birming ment the following article from the Lon don "Chronicle" which he says gives the facts of the way the British shipping trust injures British trade:

"The board of trade has undertaken to make an enquiry into the effect of the shipping rings upon our trade. The ring, or conference as it is also called, is a combination of two or more lines of ships to bination of two or more lines of ships to control the freights on a particular ocean trade route line—in other words to secure a monopoly of a particular freight market for the benefit of the members of the ring. This system is so widely extended that there are few ocean trade routes of impor-tance which are not in the grasp of a com-bination of the kind and the result is seen not merely in the artificial enhancement. not merely in the artificial enhancement of freights from British ports, but in the preferential rates given to foreign com-petitors with British traders at foreign

"The ring may not be designed with that object but its result is to give the Ger-man and other continental and American traders a tremendous pull in the markets of Asia and Africa by reason of the cheap-ness of freights granted to them for the carriage of their goods by the same steamers as carry the goods of the Englishman at very much greater rates. This system is pursued by mail companies which re-ceive subsidies from the home and colonial governments, and have not apparently a keen sense of their obligations.

"The present position is that the British shipper to South Africa has to pay a much larger freight from his own ports by British lines than the German manufacture or shipper has to pay at German ports by the same lines.

"The members of the ring while the were charging high rates to the British exporters, were actually loading steamers in America for South American ports and running them a longer distance at lower

Creek Delegation Here to Have th Curtis Act Modified. The visit of a delegation of Creek Indians to the Interior Department this week is not likely to prove beneficial to them The delegation was headed by Chief Hotul-ku Ho-ho-lo and it wants the Govern ment to ignore the Curtis act and to reenforce the original treaty entered into by the Government and the Creek Nation during the Administration of John Quincy

Secretary Hitchcock is in the West with the President, and he did not see the delegation, but the matter was referred by the department to Major Larrabee. Chief of the Indian Division, who heard the complaints and demands of the Creeks. Through "Sandy" Johnson, the interpreter, Chief Ho-tul-kee Ho-ho-lo said that since the adoption of the Curtis act the Creek Nation had been deprived of many rights and that whites and negroes had encroached on the lands of their nation.

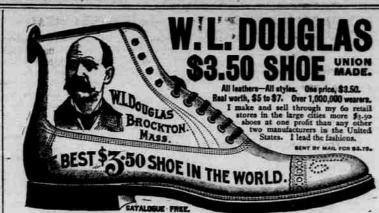

The Curtis act abolishes tribal court trials, tribal legislation, and the holding of triais, tribal legislation, and the holding of lands in common. Trials are now conducted by the Government courts, the legislation is enacted by Congress, and land is held in severalty. The Indians have been dissatisfied since the present law was enacted, and they have been so urgent in asking that it be abrogated that the Interior Department has prepared an across terior Department has prepared an agreement for the Creeks to enter into which modifies some of the provisions of the

The proposed agreement allows tribal government and trials in a modified way, but all acts of the tribal legislature der the proposed agreement must be rat-ified by the President. The tribal courts have no jurisdiction in capital cases, and the agreement provides specially that Congress does not abrogate its power to make laws for the government of the na-tion. Provision is also made for the leas-ing of lands by the Creeks. Major Larrabee informed an Evening

Times reporter today that the complaints of the delegation headed by Chief Ho-tul-kee Ho-ho-lo will not be presented to Secretary Hitchcock. He said the Interior Department is powerless to act in the mat-ter, and that the only relief the Indians can get must be obtained from Congress. If Congress ratifies the proposed agree-ment, the Creeks, he believes, will be sat-isfid. Major Larrabee will communicate in writing these views to the delegation.

A QUEER TALE OF ROBBERIES. Told by an Alleged Beggar, Who May A man giving his name as Edward Berry and his home as Johnstown, Pa., was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Baltimore and Ohio depot for begging. He told Judge Kimball this morning that he was traveling for pleasure and had been robbed of $1,350 by a blind man. He also said he had a brother who "op-erated" the Cambria National Bank of Johnstown Pa. and who sent him a check for $200 every month for his expenses, but had been followed in his travels by this same blind man and repeatedly robbed.

Judge Kimball became suspicious of the man's sanity and held him until his alleged friends could be heard from. HIS REWARD FOR SOBRIETY.

A Wealthy Father's Inducements for His Son's Reform. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.-To take the liquor cure, $5,000; to remain sober a week, $5,000 more: to leave drink alone forever, $10,000 a year for life-that was what Marvin Dutton, of Poughkeepsie, offered his son, Gould M. Dutton, and last night the young man started in to win the prize. A closed carriage brought him to the private entrance to Bellevue, and five minutes later he was a patient in the alcoholic ward, ready to begin.

It was dark when young Dutton came. With him in the carriage was his friend, an assistant to Dr. Frank C. Hollister, of 264 West Seventy-seventh Street. When the orderly heard who it was and what was wanted, he summoned Dr. Richards, who has charge of the alcoholic ward.

"This gentleman," said the physician, "wants to go to the alcoholic ward to be cured." As he spoke he handed Dr. Richards a letter to the superintendent. This resulted in an order to let the carriage go around to the private entrance, and the new patient was admitted so that no strangers saw him. His step tottered and his eye gazed around him vacantly. Yet on his features were stamped refinement and But even influence at Bellevue canno Dutton, thirty-two years old, married, of 320 West Fifty-third Street." The address was found to be simply a boarding place where the young man had stopped when he came to the city to reform. The physician with him told the rest of the story.

"Young Dutton," said he, "has a beautiful wife, who loves him dearly, but drink has estranged her. His father loves him too, and has offered him $5,000 to come here and $5,000 more if he keeps sober a week after he leaves. If he can demonstrate that he will remain sober afterward
